Official Journal of the Labor and Working-Class History Association

Over a Decade of Quality, Engaged Scholarship

As the official publication of the Labor and Working-Class History Association, Labor hopes to provide a scaffolding for understanding the roots of our current dilemmas. Labor intends to give equal attention to other labor systems and social contexts (agricultural work, slavery, unpaid and domestic labor, informal sector, the professions, etc.). Its focus begins with the U.S. experience but also extends to developments across the "American" hemisphere and to other transnational comparisons that shed light on the American experience.
